The Business-Minded Creative Diana Wink 2021-02-01 Can you have a fulfilling creative life AND make money? Not only that. Those two are inseparable. Creativity and business are two ends of the same stick. Only if a business is creative and if art is profitable, can you live a truly fulfilled artistic life. To walk this balance, you must face misconceptions and establish creative daily practices that together will get you where you want to be: serving your tribe, expressing your unique creativity, and making a good income. • Part 1 unveils why many artists are depressed, stressed out, and struggle to make ends meet, and offers a solution—a radical change of both your mind AND your day. • Part 2 dives deep into creativity, teaching you how to find your sweet spot, narrow down your passion and establish a daily practice by tricking your brain. • In Part 3, you'll learn the two ways of how to merge creativity with business, make it part of your daily practice and write a creative business plan. • Part 4 shows the three pillars your creative business absolutely needs to make it in the long-term. Each section contains examples from my own experiences and examples from well-known artists and creatives, challenging you to throw misconceptions overboard and accept the call to an adventurous and rewarding creative life. I'm Diana Wink and I'm a full-time author, filmmaker, photographer and blogger. In this book, I'll guide you through the questions, uncertainties and problems I had to face over the years and saw other creatives face, and offer you solutions that are long-lasting and profound. Solutions that work and will take your artistic life to the next level.

The Creative Business Guide to Marketing: Selling and Branding Design, Advertising, Interactive, and Editorial Services Cameron S. Foote 2011-11-14 Marketing is the biggest factor in determining the long-term success of creative service businesses. More organizations fail to achieve success, or go out of business, because of marketing than for any other cause. And the reason is simple: the old standbys of word-of-mouth, referrals, and occasional promotions are no longer enough in today's increasingly commoditized, competitive, and information-flooded environment. Today more than ever, there's a strong correlation between the success of a creative business and the effectiveness of its marketing efforts. Whether focused on design, advertising, interactive, editorial, or PR, all creatives need marketing know-how to run a successful business. This book is for those interested in running a profitable creative organization, whether alone or as a larger firm's principal or manager. A book for anyone who is unsure of the need for marketing, has had difficulty prospecting for clients, needs to know more about hiring and motivating business development (sales) personnel, or has been less than successful in converting presentations into projects, and concepts into client-approved work. The Creative Business Guide to Marketing is an instructional and real-world guide to an increasingly important aspect of the business side of creativity.

This conference was held in collaboration between Nusantara Training and Research (NTR) with Borobudur University Jakarta, 17 Agustus 1945 University (UNTAG), and the Research and Development Agency of the Ministry of Home Affairs. The papers from the conference were collected in a proceedings book entitled: Proceedings of The International Conference on Law, Social Science, Economics, and Education (ICLSSEE 2022). The presentation of such a conference covering multi-disciplines will contribute a lot of inspiring inputs and new knowledge on current trending in Law, Social Science, Economics, and Education. Thus, this will contribute to the next young generation's researchers to produce innovative research findings. Hopefully, the scientific attitude and skills through research will promote the development of knowledge generated through research from various scholars in various regions. Finally, we would like to express our greatest gratitude to all the steering committee colleagues for their cooperation in administering and arranging the conference. Hopefully, this seminar and conference will be continued in the coming years with many more insightful articles from inspiring research. We would also like to thank the invited speakers for their invaluable contribution and for sharing their vision in their talks. We hope to meet you again at the next conference of ICLSSEE.

How to Sell Your Art Online Cory Huff 2016-06-28 An essential guide for artist that teaches them how to skip the gallery system, find their niche, and connect directly with collectors to profitably sell their art. For years, galleries have acted as gatekeeper separating artists and collectors. But with the explosion of the Internet, a new generation of savvy, independent artists is connecting with buyers and making a substantial living doing what they love. How to Sell Your Art Online shows any artist how to make a successful living from their work. Cory Huff dispels the myth of the starving artist and provides the effective business strategies necessary to make artistic creations pay. He helps individual artists find their niche; outlines the elements essential for an effective website; and provides invaluable advice on e-mail marketing, blogging, social media marketing, and paid advertising—explaining how to tie all these online activities into offline success. Most importantly, he shares the secret to overcoming the biggest challenge artists face when self-marketing: learning how to tell their unique stories. Every artist has a reason for making art, but can't always find the right way to express it. Huff provides exercises artists can use to clarify the intellectual and emotional process behind their art, and teaches them how turn that knowledge into stories they can tell online and in person—and expand their reach through blogs and social media to build their art business. Drawing from the stories of successful artists, thoroughly describing how art is sold today, and providing tips on how to build connections personally and electronically, How to Sell Your Art Online illustrates the countless ways artists can take control of their creative careers—and sell their work without selling out.

The Creative Entrepreneur Lisa Sonora Beam 2008-11-01 The Creative Entrepreneur was voted Winner, in two categories—Craft and Business, of the 2009 IBPA (Independent Book Publishers Association) Benjamin Franklin Award which recognizes excellence in publishing. This book is for the large audience of artists, crafters, and creative individuals from all walks of life who desire to make a livelihood from their creative work, or who possibly have achieved some success, but don't know how to replicate it or move to another level of accomplishment. These crafty DIY artists are everywhere--they are holding alternative craft fairs, they advertise in the pages of Bust and ReadyMade and Craft, they are selling online by the thousands at Etsy.com, and are blogging at Typepad, LiveJournal, and Whipup.com. But many of them do not have the skills needed to take their business ideas to the next level. The Creative Entrepreneur takes readers on an inner journey of creative exploration to discover how to make their dreams of creative livelihood real, as they craft their own Artist's Business Journal. The Artist's Business Journal is a visual, project-oriented, step-by-step approach to business development for artists from all walks of life who are mystified and possibly frustrated by how to make a business out of their creative work.

Creative Marketing I. Fillis 2005-11-10 Creative Marketing has been written in response to the continued failure to address the theory/practice gap in marketing management. The art world is full of creativity, yet existing marketing theory continues to prescribe formulaic, stepwise processes for marketing success. Rather than perpetuating the belief in the value of traditional marketing frameworks, this book draws on a diverse range of disciplines to inspire entrepreneurial thinking and practice among those marketers who wish to push the boundaries of knowledge and convention. Creative Marketing gets back to how best to support individuals as well as small, medium and micro-enterprises through new marketing approaches.

The Artist's Business and Marketing Toolbox Neil McKenzie 2012-03-07 Starting and running a successful art business is just like running and starting any other business. To create a vibrant and sustainable art enterprise you need to have a basic understanding of how business works. You don't need an MBA but you do need to know about business and marketing. In art school they probably didn't teach you much about the business end of selling your work or what it takes to run a company. Don't worry, you don't need to enroll in business school to get a good grasp of the basics – you will find them in this book. The Artist's Business and Marketing Toolbox gives you real life examples you can use as well as over 80 forms to help you develop your business and marketing plan. Whether you just want to make a few extra dollars selling your art or you want to make art your full time profession you owe it to yourself to learn about running a business and the fundamentals of marketing. The difference between many successful and not so successful artists may have a lot more to do with their grasp of business and marketing than the art they create. In the Artist's Business and Marketing Toolbox you will learn the basics of:

- Starting a new business
- Developing your brand
- How to take advantage of opportunities and capitalize on your strengths
- Understanding the business planning process and putting together your own plan
- Accounting and finance that you need
- Becoming more productive in creating your art
- Managing and organizing your company

Developing and implementing effective marketing strategies for:

- o Public relations
- o Advertising
- o Selling your art
- o Pricing your work
- o Effective web sites
- o Networking
- o Using social media
- Developing a Visual Business and Marketing Plan

If you are looking for another book on how to get your work into a gallery (although I cover that as well) then this book is not for you. If you are interested in putting proven business techniques and tools to work for you then the Artist's Business and Marketing Toolbox is a great place to start. Don't worry if you think that you need the skills of an MBA or accountant to be successful. Passion, creativity and hard work are what counts the most and luckily most artists have an abundance of all three! Be prepared to put in some time and effort to develop your business and marketing plan and don't forget to use the creative side of your brain.
